President's Message

BY SHAR KIELACK #7799

I received a phone call from Will Hartlep informing me of his decision to leave the magazine's staff. I, for one, will miss Will's "Last Call." Will has been a contributor to the magazine for the last 14 years and has done a tremendous job. He plans on contributing feature articles to the magazine in the future, so we will still be able to read his writing. He has also decided to run for the board of directors in Nashville. Thanks Will for all the time and effort you have given the BCCA magazine.

In February, Don and I went on a cruise with the Caribe Chapter. We experienced Carnival in Aruba and drank a few Polars in the '94 Carnival can. While visiting Cartagena we tried Cerveza Aguilar, Club Columbia and Clausen Export, and while in the San Blas Islands we tried Balboa and Atlas. Some were good, but some made me wish for a Stroh's!

Upon our return to cold Chicago we lasted a couple of weeks before heading to Nashville for the weekend. The temperature was in the 70s and it felt great. We visited the convention center and Stouffer's Hotel where the Convention will be held. This should really be a great Convention. The facilities are excellent. The convention center is attached to the hotel via ramps, which also connect to a shopping mall and food court.

About two blocks from the hotel is the old Rhyman Auditorium and a lot of historic bars. Also within walking distance is the Bohannon Brewery, home of Market Street Beer.

After our meeting at the hotel, we headed to the Goldcrest 51 Chapter show held north of Nashville at the Museum of Breweriana and Beverage Containers. There were collectors from Indiana, Illinois, Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky. It was a good show and everyone seemed excited about the Convention in Nashville.

Don and I spent the night at Chuck and Pat Hillyer's home. For those of you who have seen their Convention displays, you can just imagine what their house is like. I would definitely give them "best overall house display" award. It was like walking into a Pabst museum. Cans and breweriana are everywhere, all displayed with Chuck's unique woodworking. Thanks to Chuck and Pat and the Goldcrest 51 Chapter for a great weekend. We were sorry to board the airplane for home, and even sorer when the alarm went off at 5:30am the next morning and we had to head back to work.

At the April Board meeting, the board voted to raise next year's dues to $27. We have had only one increase in the last eleven years, and as you know everything has gone up — rent, utilities, postage, etc. The board has followed the policy of not raising dues regularly every year. So when a dues increase is passed, it may seem like a large hike, but it really only reflects our inflation costs. We are a "not-for-profit" organization, so dues are not set to make a profit, but only to cover costs. Hopefully, it will be many more years before we have to increase dues again.

A can showing someone bowling doesn't qualify, but I include the Iron City bowling can because it also lists championship bowling averages. A lot of cans show fishing scenes, but I don't consider these to be sports cans unless there also is reference to a fishing tournament. However, if you feel fishing is a sport, you can complete a waiver application form which will permit fishing cans to be displayed in a sports can collection.

I've often seen collectors in fierce debate over whether the Anheuser-Busch Easter Egg Hunt 1982 and 1984 cans (ABC 64-31,32) belong in a sports can collection. The cans do mention a specific egg hunt — probably a competitive one — but since it's hard to determine if these were sanctioned Easter egg hunts, I'm reluctant to give a blanket okay on them.

Cans with an implied association to sports teams must be judged on an individual basis. Team associations are usually embraced more by the team fans. Twins Lager, Dodger Lager, Hog Brew, Birds Brew all are acceptable. But Jordan Beer and Dunks? I'll leave these to the Bulls fans.

Then there are the cans that feature college mascots. Do these qualify? My rules allow them because mascots are sports-related. They may not represent a specific sport, but they are always associated with competitive collegiate sporting events attended by students and alumni.

Phoenix Suns and Phoenix Roadrunners bank cans from 1969 through 1973

Iron City beer cans salute Pittsburgh sports

START WITH THE TOUGH CANS If you were given two weeks and a blank check with the challenge to assemble a complete collection of US sports beer cans, which cans would most likely be missing from your collection at the deadline? As a sports can collector pondering such a deal, I thought it would be interesting to compile a list ranking the 20 toughest (modern era-post 1969) sports cans to acquire.

Selecting the cans was based mostly on my regional collecting experience, but also took into account input from sports can collectors in other parts of the country. Still, it seems like every time I review the list, I want to rearrange some of the cans — mainly the bottom 10 — so their numerical ranking should not be taken too literally. But for now, I'm satisfied that these cans belong on the list of 20 in pretty much this order. I've included a value range for each can.

Top 20 Toughest Sports Beer Cans

1. Old Style Beer (De Paul) Ray Meyer salute ($25-30)
2. Budweiser Kingsmill Golf (16oz) ($25-35)
3. A-1 Phoenix Roadrunners 1969-70 schedule (bank can) ($90-100)
4. Old Style Beer Old Dominion Monarchs 1984-85 basketball schedule ($20-25)
5. A-1 Phoenix Suns 1969-70 schedule (bank can) ($90-100)
6. Coors Light 1992 America's Cup races ($25-30)
7. National Boh 1970 Orioles schedule ($60-70)
8. A-1 Phoenix Roadrunners 1970-71 schedule (bank can) ($45-50)
9. Lone Star Beer San Antonio Spurs 1984-85 schedule ($20-25)
10. Old Style Beer Fighting Illini 1983 football schedule ($15-20)
11. A-1 Phoenix Suns 1970-71 schedule (bank can) ($45-50)
12. Iron City Beer Two great traditions, 2nd ed. Steelers autographs - Art Rooney's signature at the top ($20-25)
13. Iron City Beer Pitt 1974 football schedule ($70-80)
14. A. Busch Special Golf Outing, Terre du Lac Cntry Club 1983 ($10-12)
15. A Busch Second Annual Golf Outing, Oct 1984 ($8-10)
16. Sport Light Beer (Schoenling Brg) 1990 ($5-8)
17. Harley Davidson Beer 1984 Sturgis ($8-10)
18. A-1 Phoenix Roadrunners 1971-72 schedule (bank can) ($30-35)
19. Colt 45 Malt Liquor Golden St. Warriors 1973-74 schedule ($10-15)
20. A-1 Phoenix Suns 1971-72 schedule (bank can) ($25-30)

Three Heileman's Old Style issues are on this list - Ray Meyer salute (36-22), 1985 Old Dominion Monarchs (ABC 36-23) and 1983 Fighting Illini (36-19). Right off the bat, the Ray Meyer can was described as "tough to find" in the May/Apr 1985 Brand Changes column. So someone must have been hoarding Ray's cans all this time. I'm sure of it. A friend's son was attending Old Dominion University in 1985 and he never heard of the Monarchs can. What was the connection between Heileman and this Virginia school anyway? I haven't begun to panic on these three toughies yet, but I have started bringing my Rosalie traders to shows just in case.

There is little known about the Budweiser Kingsmill 16oz series. Reference books show three cans dated 1983, 1984 & 1986. Until the February 1994 Blue & Gray show in Fredericksburg, I had only seen one of them. It was at this show that I was shocked to learn that there are 15 of these cans — maybe 16 by the time you read this! A different one has been issued each year since 1979. Anheuser-Busch made the cans in association with the annual golf tournament at the Kingsmill Golf Course in Williamsburg for employees of its Williamsburg brewery and Ball canning plant. Local sources

A collection of Budweiser Kingsmill cans few will ever see believe that one palette of full cans has been issued each year, with a case going to each tournament participant. As for my top 20 list, rather than take up the whole list with 15 Kingsmill cans, I've listed one — any one — to represent the #2 toughest sports can.

Two more Anheuser-Busch golf cans appear among the toughest. Ranked as #14 and #15, these two "Annual Golf Outing" cans don't seem to have made it out of the St. Louis area in any quantity.

The early A-1 schedule cans and the National Boh 1970 Orioles schedule can are hard to find mainly because they're old and were only distributed at a few, if only one, home game. Also, these were bank cans and were meant to be saved as souvenirs by pre-BCCA sports fans. Then there's the most recent of the tough sports cans. It's only two years old, but the Coors Light America's Cup 1992 can has already broken into my top 10. I understand that most of the Coors sports-related cans are produced in limited quantities, but this one seemed to disappear before it ever hit the stores. Was it offered only to yacht crews during the races? And did we win the Cup? I forget.

It may be a surprise to see the Lone Star San Antonio Spurs 1984-85 schedule (ABC 30-33) can ranked so high. A bank can, it was available only at the brewery gift shop and the limited supply reportedly was exhausted in a few weeks. Its more common 1983-84 predecessor (ABC 30-32) was also available only at the gift shop, but the larger supply of these lasted for a couple months.

A pair of Iron City cans make the list. The 1974 Pitt schedule can was poorly received by consumers. Hence, its short life on the market. Examples of this popular can show up for trade now and then, but the demand for it is so great that it disappears fast. A 1986 issue, the Steelers autograph can (#12) is actually a variety. A set of three were issued with a 1st, 2nd and 3rd edition. Each displayed a different assortment of Steelers facsimile autographs. For some reason, a "mule" of the 2nd and 3rd editions was also produced. It was labeled as the 2nd edition, but featured the autographs found on the 3rd edition can. Art Rooney's signature is most prominent at the top of the 3rd can, so the variety is often described as the 2nd edition with Rooney's signature.

Sport Light Beer by Schoenling is only four years old, but it is strangely absent at can shows and on trade lists. This is a simple little can with nothing that would appear to warrant a strong collector demand, but where are they all? Two similar "generic" sports cans, Official Beer and Official Light by Schells, came just short of making the top 20. Number 17, Harley Davidson 1984 Sturgis can — that's right, the Sturgis can. The first of the black Harley cans was issued to coincide with Daytona Bike Week, even though it didn't say so on the can. For that reason, this Sturgis can is easily overlooked because it looks like the Daytona can. The only difference is in the little word "Sturgis" on the lower side panel on the can. I'm sure that most can collectors in 1984 were not Harley-oriented people and probably thought "Sturgis" was an ingredient or something.

Lastly, there is a great disparity between the scarcity and price of the cans in the top-20. Some high dollar cans show up well down the list behind cans that carry a lower value. Demand and can "notoriety" play more of a role of what collectors seem willing to pay for certain cans. The Ray Meyer can is probably 10 times as scarce as dozens of cans with a $100+ price tag, but it only carries a $25-30 price because it lacks universal notoriety among can collectors.

BIZARRE FACTS AND PROBING QUESTIONS ABOUT SPORTS BEER CANS

- Except for a few special issue sports cans (Casey's Lager, Red Schoendienst and William "Pudge" Heffelfinger), all of the sports personalities featured on beer cans are from Pittsburgh and Chicago teams.
- Baseball and football players are the only athletes saluted on beer cans. All were saluted after their playing career ended.
- Until Miller produced a can for the San Jose

Sharks, only ONE American beer can had ever promoted a major professional sports team from New York or California — the Colt .45 Malt Liquor can for the Golden State Warriors 1973-74.

- Heileman has issued five basketball cans but has never featured the Chicago Bulls, even though the brewery has saluted all other Chicago pro teams on beer cans.
- Although there have been 20 different basketball-associated beer cans, none has appeared in the past nine years.
- Only four of the 20 basketball cans actually contained beer when they first appeared. The others were bank cans.
- Iron City, with what seemed to have been a regular flow of cans saluting Pittsburgh teams since the 1970s, didn't issue a Pirates can from 1981 to 1987, or a Penguins can from 1983 to 1988.
- It may not be much longer for a variety of local teams to be recognized on beer cans. There seems to be a trend developing as Miller has begun to salute local teams on Miller Lite and Genuine Draft cans sold in their respective markets. The latest cans feature the Flyers, Sharks, Red Wings and Bruins. Good move!

- Why did Heileman skip the 16oz Old Style Light Dick Butkus can? It should have been the 5th in this series. There was an Old Style Butkus, 4th in the series, and Walter Payton was featured on Old Style and Old Style Light that were designated as the 6th & 7th in the series!
- Why did Coors salute the Baltimore Orioles on a can in 1991? Were they practicing for the upcoming Rockies issue?
- Why did Coors produce a Pittsburgh Penguins and Three Rivers Regatta can? (Don't they know Iron City handles these things for Pittsburgh?)
- Is that Pittsburgh Three Rivers Regatta really a boat race as the name implies?
- Has Miller gone overboard with the Dallas Cowboys — four separate cans in 1992-93 saluting essentially the same thing?

Can company sports issues from the early '80s

Hopefully this article will encourage collectors to consider sports-related beer cans as a possible collecting specialty. There are so many ways to collect and organize them from featuring a single sport, one team, all pro sports, or team schedules. And, an organized display of sports beer cans in your home will attract the interest of sports fans as well as other beer can collectors. My wife was drawn to MY sports can display within minutes after I bolted the collection to the wall over the sofa in the living room!

Happy (competitive) hunting!

TOOHEYS DRAUGHT World's Biggest BBQ

This 375ml aluminum spinneck can commemorates the eight locations for World's Biggest BBQ, on Sunday, October 10, 1993. All eight city names appear in the band at the top and bottom of this colorful Australian can.

Paul "Fatty" Vautin invited all of New South Wales to drop in for a barbie and a beer, smoke from the BBQ spread across NSW Australia as families munched on sizzling sausages, chicken burgers, cole slaw, snacks for the kids, ice creams, soft drinks and TOOHEYS DRAUGHT (shown) and BLUE. The BBQ was a fund-raising event for the State Emergency Service.

Eight separate locations hosted the day — Marathon Stadium (Newcastle), Steelers Stadium (Wollongong), Robertson Oval (Wagga Wagga), Canberra Racecourse, Apex Oval (Dulbo), West Tamworth Leagues Club, Grafton Racecourse and Warwick Farm (Sydney).

Millions of dollars went into making this the biggest family event in NSW — and possibly the biggest event of it's kind held in the world. (Could be a Guinness Book of Records entry!) Bushers, clowns, magicians, jazz bands, aerobatic displays by top NSW sky-diving teams, a mini-amusement park, puppet acts, rides for kids young and old entertained crowds at each location. Sure wish I could have been there!

Marcella Schinski #3715

The Tennessee Brewing Co. of Memphis, founded in 1885, remained solvent selling its flagship brand, Goldcrest Beer, before and after prohibition. By 1949 the brand was the largest selling beer in the Memphis area.

The early 1950s brought competition from breweries with national appeal and huge advertising budgets. Falstaff, Schlitz and others made inroads into southern states and the Tennessee brewing market. Tennessee responded by introducing additional brands, including DeSoto beer.

In 1953 E. C. Krausnick Jr., the 30 year old great-grandson of the original founders, took command of the brewery. Mr. Krausnick was unable to reverse waning sales of Goldcrest, and ceased production of DeSoto. The brewery closed in 1954.

The DeSoto can is a one sided flat top, deep metallic blue with silver, red and white trim. Oddly enough, most DeSoto cans have been found in southern California, far from the normal Tennessee Brewing distribution area. Two grade one versions have emanated from collections in that area, and a recent find of less than ten dumpers on the West Coast account for the majority of cans known today.

Presumably Tennessee sent a major shipment west, a swan song for this beautiful and rare beer can.

DeSoto Beer

Lone Star 16 Ounce

The Lone Star Brewing Company of San Antonio, Tx. bought the Progress Brewing Company of Oklahoma City, OK in 1960 and ran it until 1970, then closed it. Many cans were produced during this ten year span, and the rarest is this 16 oz Lone Star tab. The only beer can book it appears in is Volume 3 of the maverick Beer Can Collectors Guide, page 38, #3626.

The can is a zip top, placing its production in the early 60s. It is the standard two-sided, white can with the red Lone Star shield on both sides and the bold statement of its size above the shield.

On the side opposite the seam, is printed "Brewed and Filled • Lone Star Brewing Co. • Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Also San Antonio, Texas • 16 Fl.Oz." It is interesting to note that at the time this can was produced, Texas didn't allow the sale of beer in any size other than 12oz, so all 16oz cans were produced at the Lone Star plant in Oklahoma City and marketed only in Oklahoma. This can is extremely rare - I know of only four. The price value is approximately $300!

ABOUT THE COVER

BREW 77

The Gerst Brewing Company of Nashville TN made only two beer-cans. The Gerst 57 crowntainer featured on the cover of this issue was the first, followed by this Gerst "Brew 77" conetop. Both were issued between 1951 and 1953.

The Wm Gerst Company was founded in 1913, and these two cones were their last gasp to stay alive in the early 50s. They never made a flat top, but did produce their beer and an ale in bottles up until their demise in 1954.

The Brew 77 cone has a gold background with the oval outline in red around a white background inside the oval. Brew 77 is in black, highlighted in gold, and the words Gerst

Beer are in gold on the red oval outline.

The Gerst family now runs a restaurant, the Gerst House, in downtown Nashville, and is a "must" on the list of places to visit by BCCA'ers during the Nashville CANvention. (Photos courtesy of Tony Steffen and Tom Waggoner)

*"Better than a poke in the eye with a sharp stick."
from a Triple Rock beer coaster*

The micro-brewery business is certainly being good to us. First and foremost, they are contributing a wonderful selection of beers, ales, stouts, porters and other liquid luxuries, and second, they are creating a lot of new collectibles for our members — especially coasters. Thanks to Mr. Cooperrider, we now have the maps to guide us there, and thanks to Messrs. Pawlowski and McDougall, we can appreciate the wide range of coasters produced by these establishments.

The maps themselves (no, not available from AAA) show the locations of the brewpubs and micro-breweries along with the street addresses and hours of operation. Other notes describe the availability of tours, whether they have kegs to go, and if food is served. For some of these operations there is more complete information about the origin of the enterprise and the styles of beer they produce.

In addition to creating great beer, these micro-breweries are also quite busy making some very attractive coasters to proudly promote their products. This coaster guide (both volumes) shows about 800 of them on some 360 pages. The breweries are arranged alphabetically by state and then by the name of the company. Characterization includes notes on colors, thickness and whether printed on one or two sides.

This book is conveniently assembled in a loose-leaf format so that the regular bi-annual updates may be readily inserted so that it will always be up to date. Information on subscribing to these updates will be included with each copy.

It is really great to see the once stagnant brewing industry receive an exciting shot in the arm — new breweries, new beers, and new breweriana. And now we even have the maps to make our travels to CANventions much more enjoyable.

The Brewers Journal

BY HENRY HERBST #70

It never ceases to amaze me as to the answers I receive to my contest questions. Contest #28 asked what was the ingredient that Ballantine called "Brewers Gold" and "in what year did they celebrate their 125th anniversary?" A 1962 vintage Ballantine Ale can in my collection has a side panel which states: "Brewed with Brewer's Gold, a strain of choice hops used specially by Ballantine in our own exclusive true ale recipe." Sounds like a simple answer — Brewer's Gold Hops. But wait. Bill Christensen #33, reports that a number of years ago he talked with Carl Badenhausen, the son of the last owner. As best Bill could remember, Carl stated "that since they were producing a hopped ale which was packaged and shipped all over the country, they found that for shelf life purposes in a live ale with hops, they could use a liquified hop extract in the brew rather than live or dried flowers. They were kind of ashamed of this use of liquid hops, and converting a brewer's no-no into an advertising plus, they called it Brewer's Gold."

Next comes the 125th anniversary question (this one really simple): The Ballantine Beer can in my collection states 125th anniversary, 1840-1965, so it must be true, right? Wrong! Technically speaking, Bill and Rob Reichenbach #25923, both reported that Peter Ballantine had been brewing in North America for 132 years in 1965. Seems he started in Albany, New York, in 1833, and moved to Newark, New Jersey in 1840. So the can really celebrates 125 years of brewing in Newark. For his answer, Rob will be sent a Tennent's Lager Beer flat brewed by Tennent Caledonian Breweries Limited of Scotland. Bill's answers were great, but he was disqualified by the judge because he already has enough cans!

The 1993 U.S. brewers sales numbers are in, and the results are as follows:

RANK	BREWER	BARRELS
1	Anheuser-Busch	87,300,000
2	Miller	44,024,000
3	Coors	19,828,000
4	Stroh	12,500,000
5	Heileman	8,900,000
6	Pabst	7,100,000
7	Genesee	2,150,000
8	Latrobe	1,046,892
9	Falstaff	1,000,000
10	Pittsburgh	905,000

Of special note is the fact that Jim Koch's Boston Beer Company, contract brewers of Samuel Adams, had an astonishing 64% increase in sales, which for 1993, totaled 450,000 barrels. This was enough to rank them 11th place in the U.S. brewing industry.

The top 10 brands for 1993 were:

RANK	BRAND	BARRELS	MARKET SHARE
1	BUDWEISER	44,000,000	23.4%
2	MILLER LITE	16,100,000	8.5
3	BUD LIGHT	13,800,000	7.3
4	COORS LIGHT	12,600,000	6.6
5	BUSCH	9,200,000	4.8
6	GENUINE DRAFT	7,100,000	3.7
7	MILWAUKEE'S BEST	6,700,000	3.6
8	OLD MILWAUKEE	5,400,000	2.8
9	NATURAL LIGHT	5,100,000	2.7
10	HIGH LIFE	5,100,000	2.7

The following is the ranking of the industry's top 10 brewers over the last 30 years:

RANK	1963	1973	1983	1993
1	A-B	A-B	A-B	A-B
2	SCHLITZ	SCHLITZ	MILLER	MILLER
3	PABST	PABST	STROH	COORS
4	CARLING	COORS	HEILEMAN	STROH
5	FALSTAFF	MILLER	COORS	HEILEMAN
6	BALLANTINE	FALSTAFF	PABST	PABST
7	HAMM	SCHAEFER	GENESEE	GENESEE
8	SCHAEFER	STROH	C. SCHMIDT	LATROBE
9	COORS	HEILEMAN	FALSTAFF	FALSTAFF
10	RHEINGOLD	CARLING	PITTSBURGH	PITTSBURGH

A 30-year comparison shows that in 1963, the industry produced 100,631,561 barrels; 1993, the industry produced 186,075,000 barrels; 1963, the top 5 brewers produced 37% of the industry total; 1993, the top 5 brewers produced 92% of the industry total.

Of interest is the fact that in 1963 the Miller Brewing Company ranked #11 with 2.8 million barrels, the Stroh Brewing Company ranked 13th with production of 2 million barrels, while the Genesee Brewing Company produced 1.1 million barrels and ranked 22nd. Coors, Heileman, Latrobe and the Pittsburgh Brewing Company did not rank in the top 25 brewers. Others who ranked in the top 25 in 1963, but are no longer around include Duquesne, Jackson, Narragansett, Jacob Ruppert, Associated, National, Drewrys and Rheingold.

Contest #29

The Budweiser brand name has been around for a long time, and has been used by many brewers other than Anheuser-Busch. I will send a mint flat to the member who can list the most brewers who have used the name.

Talk Back

BY MARCIA BUTTERBAUGH #6560

After 14 years of writing for the BCCA magazine, Will Hartlep #3109, has decided to retire. That's an admirable length of time for anyone to contribute to an organization — in fact, probably a record in the BCCA history.

In searching through back issues to track his history, I learned that when Will began his BCCA writing career in 1980, his column was entitled "Potpourri Forum," and it generally appeared at the back of the magazine facing "Quid," the infamous column by Jeff Berg #799. In late 1982, Will did a name adjustment to his column, calling it "Potpourri East." That name, as well as the slogan, "related and unrelated tidbits from the East and other places," stayed with Will until the magazine got a face lift in September 1992 and the slogan was dropped. Just a year earlier, Will's column moved permanently to the inside back cover, which eventually lead to the name change in early 1993 to "Last Call." And now, "Last Call" has made it's last call, and it will be missed by many. The BCCA extends a hearty thank you to Will for his years of entertaining reading. We all look forward to his future contributions to the magazine and continued involvement with the BCCA.

At present, there are no specific plans to replace Will's column. After the magazine survey results are tabulated, an analysis of comments and readership preferences will help determine topics and hobby-related editorial most desired by the membership. So, stay tuned for the results.

Meanwhile, we had a formal drawing at the BCCA office on April 29 for the winner of the free 1995 BCCA membership from the survey respondents... and the winner is #21542 - Gary Desantis, from Tampa, Florida. Congratulations, Gary, and thanks to you and everyone who responded. We will have the results tabulated in May, and a full report will be given at Swap-A-Rama in June.

An overall observation I've made from reading the general comments in the survey is that editorial shouldn't stray too far away from our basic hobby interest of beer cans. With that in mind, I hope that all future issues, like this issue, will always have a lead story on cans, with a second story on breweriana. (Of course, that is dependent upon member contributions!) I also want to expand the Can Close Up column -- also dependent upon contributions.

And since we have the rights to Beer Cans Monthly, I would like to re-run and update can articles from that magazine. Again, I invite anyone with can information or an idea for a feature to contact Dan Andrews. Dan has been a great help in sourcing and writing feature stories and excellent Can Close Ups for the magazine.

Bottom line is, you can please some of the people all the time, and all of the people some of the time, but never everyone, always. It's obviously true, judging from the following letters:

From Ernie Oest in a letter to Henry Herbst:

"BCCA was smart to add Brewery Collectibles to their operation. With so many other variations of breweriana, 100% cans is too limited."

And, in a letter from Jim Snider:

"I am personally extremely disappointed with the move of our content of the magazine away from beer cans....I honestly feel we have taken a step backward in providing a service, i.e., the focus on cans, to the BCCA membership."

On a different subject, this letter came from Harry Keithline:

"Have you ever belonged to a chapter that folded up? Did you ever wonder where the money that was in that chapter's treasury went to? I've belonged to several chapters that went belly up...two of which had something in their constitution about dividing up money to current members. I know I've never received a penny from them, and nobody else did either. The two chapters are Bluff City and Heart of Illinois. What happened to their treasury? The Heart of Illinois had over $700 back in 1992. There are more chapters that have folded over the past 15 years -- did anyone every get money from these defunct chapters?

(Editor's note: Can anyone answer Harry's question?)

BCCA's own John Vetter (president of the Crown Collectors Society International) was quoted in a story on "Top Caps" (crowns) in a recent issue of Collectibles -- Country & Americana. (How about a story for our magazine, John?)

I challenge all of you to look at your own collections and find something about cans and breweriana you have knowledge about and would like to share with the BCCA. We need more features like the ones in this issue!

Thanks to Bruce Remick, Dave Launt, Dan Andrews, Marcella Schinski, Dick Caughey and Tom Hull for your beer can and breweriana contributions in this issue. And, thanks to the entire magazine staff for your dedicated support to the content of the magazine (We'll miss you, Will!)

Chapter. Brewings

BY JIM MC COY #136

COULD THIS BE THE BILLY CAN OF THE '90s? ... LET'S HOPE NOT!

An article in a January 7 '94 Milwaukee, Wis. newspaper described the 16 oz. Pabst Badgers Rose Bowl '94 can as a possible short-lived collector's item.

Because of a Tournament of Roses rule against alcoholic beverage promotions for the football game, Pabst recalled the cans after 8,700 cases were shipped to stores. Returned cans were reportedly destroyed.

Word of the impending recall drew hordes of shoppers to liquor stores in Wauwatosa, Wis. One store's 50 case supply was exhausted in one day.

One anonymous collector, who had "inside information" on the recall, bought as many cases as he could. Claiming "anything with sports memorabilia is hot", he is now offering the cans via newspaper ads at varying prices.

WHY ASK WHY!

One of the BCCA newsletters does an irregular feature called Did you ever wonder why? There are a few burning questions I've wondered but was always afraid to ask. Does "Lift Tab and Pull" qualify as an opening instruction? What is an obsolete current? Does Rolling Rock and Samuel Adams really pay someone to do their ads or is it a brother-in-law or someone? Does Billy Dee Williams drink that Colt 45 ML now? Does Bill Clinton avoid draft beer? If Joe Camel has to quit cigarette ads, what beer do you think he would promote? If Malt Liquor and Malt Lager are the same, why aren't Liquor and Lager the same? Can you buy Dry Beer in a dry county? Which brewer will be the first to come out with Dry Ice Beer? And finally, I would like to know if the guy on the Old Wisconsin can is Chinese.

GIVES BCCA A WHOLE NEW MEANING!

Chick Runge used to say that our goal is to "Get Cans" and to put on shows and trades that would allow our membership to "Get Cans." I wholeheartedly support this theme as our mission statement for the next

We all collect more than cans now, and I think the time has come to make it known to the world that the BCCA can also stand for the Breweriana and Can Collectors of America.

AND BEER IS A WELL-KNOWN SOURCE FOR VITAMIN B!

The current head of the FDA, David Kessler, is trying to force Americans to have to get a prescription from a doctor to buy vitamins! I wonder what he might have in mind for the brewing industry. Have you ever heard of the hoops you used to have to jump through to buy beer in Iceland? I don't know if these are still in place in Iceland, but it was the rough equivalent of having to get a prescription to buy beer and then having to wait at least a couple of weeks to get it. Is this what awaits us?

As some of you may know, I've been keeping a list of every beer I've tasted since 1971. I have three categories: U.S., Foreign, Draft Beers (U.S. Foreign). As of 12/31/93 I've tried 2,828 different beers (1,239 U.S., 986 Foreign in bottles and cans and 603 Draft). I added 406 beers in 1993. As of 3/11/94 I've added an additional 81 Brews. Number 3,000 is just around the corner.

Q. Collectors seem to have their own alphabet. I was reading a publication and a column about beer collectibles talking about TOCs. What are they?

A. TOC stands for signs made of tin over cardboard backing. Collectors also call them pulp backs. They were a common type of sign made before 1940.

HEY, LETTERMAN, CHECK OUT THIS TOP 10 LIST!

From our home office in Salt Lake City, here are this month's top 15 suggestions for getting rid of "transactionally challenged" (i.e. worthless) beer can trading stock:

#15 Hold a neighborhood carnival in your backyard and let the kids throw baseballs at them.

#14 Donate them to your least favorite charity.

#13 Bury them in an area frequented by treasure seeking metal detector users.

#12 Slide up to the raffle table at a trade show and leave a few cases behind.

#11 Toss them in a crawlspace or attic (perhaps even your own).

#10 Start a dump in your backyard for future generations of beer can collectors.

#9 Create cheesy homemade paper labels, tape them around the cans, then pass them out at the door of the Gambrinus Chapter's upcoming MONSTER trade session at Vets Memorial.

#8 Toss a few in your neighbor's yard each night.

#7 Get them autographed by major league baseball players and sell them at a card show.

#6 Buy the rights to the Pelican Cigarette Lighter company, and start producing beer can lighters again.

#5 Convince the Home Shopping Club that they will sell like hotcakes

#4 Drop a few pieces of candy corn in each one and pass them out at Halloween.

#3 Graciously volunteer to send all new chapter members a complimentary selection of cans, "just to help them get started."

#2 Start a new business that supplies strings of beer cans to be dragged behind the cars of "Just Married" newlyweds.

AND, the #1 suggestion: Shovel the whole pile of cans into the back of a rusty pickup truck, drive way out into the boonies and dump them off a cliff overlooking a small stream. A great idea that has been a popular one for the last 59 years!

IT DOESN'T HAPPEN BY ACCIDENT

Putting products into movies and TV shows in Hollywood is big business. 'Product Placement' companies work with the movie companies and makers of all types of products including beer. Chances are when your favorite star picks a Coors or Miller beer out of the frig it was planned that way. Also when you see various beer signs/neons/clocks or whatever, usually all this is coordinated too. You'll notice sometimes a bar will have nothing but Budweiser point of sale items...then at the end of the movie they're in the credits with special thanks or a promotional fee paid by them in exchange for use of their advertising pieces. The product placement people do research to find the right movie for the right product.

WHAT ELSE DO YOU COLLECT?

For the past few years, Ed Harker and Brent Bennett have been collecting stadiums (Stadia?). Of course no more literally than Jim Thole collecting amusement parks -- they are actually trying to see one game (together; separately doesn't count) in every major league NFL and NHL baseball stadium or arena. They get photographed in front of the stadium, and save the ticket stubs and programs. Brent even saves the cups from which he drank the beer!

With the many stadium closings of recent years, they've had to arrange special trips, like this year to Mile-Hi. With the seemingly never-ending league expansions, they should be busy for years to come.

KIWIS, KOALAS, KANGAROOS, "KOLLECTORS"

Last spring L.O. Holden and his wife Lois got the chance of a lifetime -- a 30-day tour of Australia and New Zealand. L.O. figured he'd use four of the tour's "free days" to visit a collector, or two. Try 23 collectors and 8 collections!

The "Down-Under" collectors came out in force. All four days were spent with gracious hosts. BCCA members John Garland, Alison and David Tamsitt, Ken Storay, Wally Sarne and Ken Osborne, as well as many other local collectors, went out of their way to welcome the "Yanks."

Although L.O. and Lois got to see all the wonderful tourist attractions -- kiwis, koalas and kangaroos -- it was the "Kollectors" and their hospitality that they'll never forget.

UPDATES, ODD & ENDS

Just around the time I was praising the honesty I've recently observed in the hobby, Bill Boyles editorialized in the KC's Best newsletter about growing thievery at their sessions. That's a shame because I really held out hope that the sleeze faction had been weeded out of our ranks. Could it be all of our Eastern thieves moved to Kansas City? Nah.

Ron Hayes has expanded on our list of misfortunes in and around Convention cities: The 3-Mile Island incident near Hershey (how'd we forget THAT one?); the Metrodome roof collapsing in Minneapolis; the Oakland Hills fires after Santa Clara; and the Amtrak crash after New Orleans. Ron, a Trillium member, apologizes for the last of any such occurrences before or after Toronto -- except for the first of who knows how many World Series titles (I guess some American baseball fans consider that a disaster!)

Normally I would be doing my Roster Research at this time, but after seeing censorship rear its ugly head again, I'm just going to give it up. Yep, individualism in this club has taken another hit.

PASSING THE TORCH

Ahrens stand-in (a BCCA magazine columnist on tip toes to approximate the height difference) transferring the flame to Bill, via Shar. (With such solemn events are BCCA traditions maintained!)

Prez and First Gent, Shar and Don Kielack, came out to New Jersey in January to attend the Garden State Chapter's Kickoff session. Afterward, they took in an impromptu Laphroaig session, where Shar participated in a symbolic "Passing of the Torch" (in this case, a candle).

You see, Bill Christensen has been accepted for inclusion in the Guinness Book of Records with his 75,000 can collection, which easily eclipses John Ahrens' former standard of 15,000.

Congratulations, Bill!

BrandChanges

BY WARREN HARDAKER #696

I cannot believe that we are now working on the June issue already, as I am starting to type this as of Feb. 3rd. Makes the year really fly by. I can already tell that we can expect a couple of new issues, more special issues from the big three, and of course many minor canning company type changes. Ice beers have arrived and are certainly the new fad, as many new issues are being added this month.

This month's contributors include Bob Terray #18239, Oscar Mehl #2573, Ed Ackerman #1151, Dennis McCormick #21393, Rick Paar #17587, Bill Grissom #12476, Mark Treese #27371, Jim Demmeka #19447, Glenn Switcher #2335, Cam Roos #27529, Warren Hardaker #696, Bjarne Nilssen #15980, John Kizis #15037, Marcella Schinski #3715, Owen Evans #24350, Pere Trafach #27413, Gene Fiscalini #13472, Gene Brega #27156, Robert Huttenmaier #3233, and Jose Luis de Carvalho Cesar #27795.

1. BIRDS BREW (Evansville/ Evansville, IN) This football style can is green with white, silver and black. As before, this is issue "#1" and has "1993-94" bottom face. (GW=5) (Ball) 2375S

2. BRAUN GOLD LAGER BEER (Braun-Auburndale/ Auburndale, FL) Gold with white stripes and red and black in the design. I am guessing that this can may be being sent to the islands, as it also has some Spanish and mentions that it was "Made in USA" on the label. "Brewed by Braun Brewing and Distributed by: Walton and Post, Inc." This might account for the small "W & P" located near the top. (GW=7) (Ball) 2600S

3. BREWSKI (BREW PUB) LIGHT (Brewski-Heileman/Portland, OR) Here is the companion can to the one shown last month. Silver with a white label; red, blue, silver, and gold in the design. (GW=5) (QJ750) (Crown) 2810S

BUD DRY DRAFT (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) 12 oz spinneck, with silver label replacing the white version. The city of St. Louis has been added to the main label, along with a couple slight word changes. "World's Largest..." and a different canning company are also noted changes. (GW=4) (CM) 2108S

BUD KING OF BEERS (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) This 12 oz (33cl) can is like the one reported in the Jan 93 issue for Barcelona, Spain. The importer (wording on side) is now different. It reads "Budes, S.A. Con Domicilio Social En C/Napoles, No 249 6A (08013) Barcelona." (GW=0) (Unknown) S202

BUD LIGHT BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) 12oz World Cup can from Crown canning. See April 94 issue. (GW=6) (Crown 660650) 2098S

BUDWEISER KING OF BEERS (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) 12oz World Cup can from Crown canning. See April 94 issue. (GW=6) (Crown 661807) 2144S

BUDWEISER KING OF BEERS (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) 16oz can with canning company change. This is not a "World Cup" can. (GW=3) (AM-NA 661992) 2145S

4. BULL ICE BREWED MALT LIQUOR (Stroh/Detroit, MI) This unusual design can is another entry into the iced beer market. The colors are silver, black, blue, red, and orange in a very busy design. The can is a 16oz version and has "7.7% Alc/Vol" count. (GW=4) (AM-NA) 2700S

BURGERMEISTER LIGHT (BURGIE) (Heileman/La Crosse, WI) Never shown as a GW can, this silver edition has a spinneck and also uses red, white, and blue. As in many cans shown before, the Heileman number ends in an odd number which makes me believe that another can preceded this version. (GW=6) (QF-381) (Cont 429-C) 2325S

5. BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) A new look for this racy version. Checkers top- and bottomface and celebrating the "16th Annual Busch Clash." Below the race logo is "16th Anniversary Commemorative Can." Standard colors. (GW=4) (CM 663962) 2213S

6. CAICOS BEER (Caicos-Auburndale/ Auburndale, FL) The companion to the Caicos Light beer shown in Sept 92. This brand was made to export to the British West Indies, carries a GW and is white, red with shades of blues, green and pink. (GW=?) (Unknown) 3095S

6. CAICOS BEER (Caicos-Auburndale/ Auburndale, FL) Just like above, but this time exported to Argentina. The side panel has "Importador: Dicris Srl Sarmiento 3965 Buenos Aires." (GW=?) (Unknown) 3096S

7. COLT ICE MALT LIQUOR (Heileman-Baltimore/La Crosse, WI) The 12 oz can is also black, white, and blue in the design, but the words "Smooth Bold Taste" are bottomface. (GW=5) (QJ 990) (AM-NA) 3075S

8. COLT ICE MALT LIQUOR (Heileman-Baltimore/La Crosse, WI) This 16oz can uses black, white, and blue in the design. "7.5% Alcohol By Volume" is at bottomface. (GW=4) (QJ980) (AM-NA) 3076S

9. COORS ARTIC ICE BEER (Coors/Golden, CO) This can has a red band around the top, and the brand name is in red. Black, white, silver, and two shades of blue in the rest of the design. (GW=4) (None Shown) 2500S

10. COORS LIGHT (Coors/Golden, CO) This 16oz special issue is for the "October 1993 Las Cruces, New Mexico Whole Enchilada Fiesta. Silver, red, white, pink, maroon, green, and blue. (GW=4) (None Shown) 3590S

11. DIXIE BEER (Dixie/New Orleans, LA) Issued last year for the BCCA Convention in New Orleans. The standard red, white, green, and gold. Mentioned are the Mardi Gras Chapter, and "Welcome BCCA to Convention XXIII." Thank you- Dixie. (GW=4) (Ball) 4108S

12. DOG POUND BREW (Evansville/ Evansville, IN) Another special issue (Football?) by this brewery. Silver with brown, orange, and white in the design. As in the past it is issue "#1" and for "1993-94" season. (GW=5) (Ball) 4075S

13. HARLEY-DAVIDSON MC BEER (Huber/Monroe, WI) A redesigned (Daytona 94) entry for this brand this year. The background is orange, while the logo appears superimposed over a checkered flag. The spinneck and the bottom both sport a firetrack. (GW=3) (Crown) 8006S

LEINENKUGEL'S BEER (Leinenkugel/Chippewa Falls, WI) Although not shown since Nov 89, this can now is in a spinneck style and lists two brewing locations: Chippewa Falls and Milwaukee. Standard design and colors. (GW=7) (None shown) 120075

24. LITE (FINE PILSNER) (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) This 16oz special issue is in a western motif, for "Rodeo Days." Like the other it keeps with the red, white, blue and silver colors. (GW=3) (None shown) 120315

"100 River Place" address around bottom, with standard colors and design. (GW=0) (Unknown) S121

OLD MILWAUKEE NA (Stroh/Detroit, MI) Same label on both sides, so I guess it is only being sold in the U.S. Standard colors, but style is spinneck with two crimps. Made by American-National. (GW=0) (AM-NA) S15105

CANVENTION XXIV UPDATE

September 8-11, 1994

Nashville TN

By Chuck Hillyer #23705

On behalf of the Goldcrest 51 Chapter and all the good ole boys and girls in Tennessee, I would like to extend a personal invitation to each and every one of you to come and join us in Music City USA for a "Grand Ole Convention!"

HEADQUARTERS HOTEL INFORMATION AND RESERVATIONS

The 1994 Convention hotel is the Stouffer Nashville Hotel, a AAA four diamond hotel, located in the heart of downtown Music City USA. The hotel adjoins both the Nashville convention center and the Church Street Centre, which is an exciting shopping, dining and entertainment complex.

The hotel is within walking distance of historic Second Avenue and Printers Alley, along with other historical sites, and only a trolley ride from Music Row. The Grand Ole Opry and Opryland Theme Park are a mere 20 minutes away.

The hotel offers an indoor pool, a tanning sundeck, a weight and exercise room and a hydro-therapy whirlpool or sauna. Complimentary coffee and a newspaper are delivered to your room with your wake-up call.

The room rates quoted are in effect three days prior and three days following the actual Convention dates.

The hotel is located approximately 12 miles from the Nashville airport. The airport offers shuttle service to the hotel every 30 minutes ($8 per person one way, or $14 round trip). Rental cars and taxis are also available.

All hotel reservations should be sent directly to the Stouffer Nashville Hotel utilizing the BCCA Hotel Registration Form prior to August 6, 1994.

Reservations received after this date are not guaranteed the Convention rate and will be on a space available basis. It is recommended that you send in your reservations as early as possible in order to secure the room(s) of your choice. Attendees requesting rooms in the same area of the hotel should submit their registration forms together in the same envelope; however, it may not be possible to satisfy your request due to hotel logistics. The Stouffer will make every reasonable attempt to honor your request for "noisy," "moderate," or "quiet" areas.

Reservations will be honored until 6pm on the stated arrival day unless guaranteed by credit card or a deposit equivalent to one night's lodging.

Signage

Signs for individual guest room doors will be furnished in your "goodie bag," and must be mounted with the 3M double faced tape, which will also be provided. All other types of signage must be affixed to the display boards located at the elevator landing on each guest floor. No signs are to be posted inside the elevators, corridors, lobby, restaurant or pool area.

Automobile Parking

There is a limited number (120) of valet parking spaces in the hotel at a cost of $5 per day with unlimited in/out privileges. Directly across the street from the hotel is a large parking garage at a cost of $6 per day, with no in/out privileges.

RV/Camper Parking

There are two overnight parking facilities located in the Opryland Theme Park area, approximately 20 minutes from the hotel. Rates vary from $20 to $30 per night, and complete hook-ups are available. More information will be in the Convention booklet.

CANVENTION ACTIVITIES/INFORMATION

All activities will be held in the hotel and the adjoining convention center. Guests may attend all official activities except BCCA business meetings as outlined in the Schedule of Events.

Pre-registration

The Convention registration form must be received at the BCCA office by August 1, 1994. BCCA family members are afforded the same rates as a regular member and must register on a separate form from the member (duplicate or facsimile). A single check or money order covering multiple registrations in the same envelope is permissible.

Registrations received postmarked August 2 through August 14 will have a late fee of $3 assessed. Pre-registration ends on August 14. All registrations postmarked after this date will be returned without processing.

Pre-registered attendees can pick up their identification badge with holder, commemorative can and banquet tickets at the Registration Desk. Location of the desk will be announced in the Convention booklet.

On-Site Registration

It is possible to register at the Convention site; however, the cost will be higher than pre-registration rates. Costs will be posted daily. Trade tables and banquet tickets will be subject to availability. On-site registration will be at the registration desk.

Identification Badges

Badges will be issued in one of the following categories: Member over 21, Guest over 21, Member under 21, or Guest under 21. The legal drinking age in Tennessee is 21. Failure to show your age on the registration form will result in an "under age" badge being issued.

Convention Packet

Registrants will receive a packet approximately four weeks prior to the Convention. If you require the packet earlier, so indicate on your registration form.

The Convention booklet, provided as part of the packet, will contain information on identification badges, commemorative can and banquet tickets. The booklet will also contain a schedule showing day, time and location of all Convention activities.

Convention Registration Refunds

If, after registering, you have the need to cancel, a refund will be honored if you write or call the BCCA office. Requests by mail must be postmarked by Sep 3, 1994, and phone requests must be made prior to Sep 6, 1994. All refunds will be mailed after the Convention.

General Trade Sessions and Trading Tables

Thursday, Friday and Saturday General Trade Sessions will be held in the Convention Center which adjoins the hotel. Tables are limited and will be preassigned on a first come, first served basis, until sold out.

Table cost is $15 for the three day period. Members wishing to be assigned tables together should send their registrations together and so indicate. Once a table has been assigned, no changes will be made. If tables are sold out, members will be notified and placed on a waiting list.

Cans and breweriana may be left on the trade floor tables overnight. However, we ask that you cover the contents of your table with some type of covering (sheet, tarp, plastic, etc.) when leaving for the day. Ample security will be provided when the trade floor is closed.

Banquet

The Saturday evening Banquet and Awards/Recognition Ceremony is optional. Attendees who have registered for the banquet will need to get a preassigned table. Sign-up time will be specified in the convention booklet. The number of banquet seats are limited, so please register early if you want to attend. All attendees are encouraged to dress in Country/Western style, as the Convention "Hoe-Down" immediately follows the banquet.

The menu features a choice of prime rib, or turkey Dianne. Each choice includes salad, vegetables, rolls, dessert, coffee and iced tea.

National Hospitality Nights

Thursday evening has been proclaimed "Fabulous Fifties" Night. Everyone is encouraged to attend and dress in the styles of the fifties era.

There will be various contests -- hula hoop, Name that Tune, dance, etc., and of course, free beer.

Saturday following the Banquet and Awards Ceremony, a live band of Grand Ole Opry quality will play country and western music for your listening and dancing pleasure. And, free beer, of course.

Continental Breakfast

All BCCA members attending the Saturday morning General Business Meeting will be treated to a free continental breakfast consisting of donuts, muffins, coffee or juice.

Chapter Sales

A Chapter Sales area will be set up just outside the trade area. Chapters desiring to sell items must complete the registration form which was sent to each chapter correspondent. Chapters are reminded that only those items with Chapter logos may be sold (unless previously approved by the Board of Directors or designated officer), and that all proceeds from the sales are for the chapter profit only.

The deadline to reserve a table is August 1, 1994. A deposit of $10 must be sent with the reservation request. The deposit will be refunded if the table was used for the intended purpose. Additional tables may be purchased at $10 each, if available, after August 26, 1994.

Advance Shipping of Cans and/or Display Items

You can ship cans or display items in advance to: Tom Bates #9197, c/o The Museum of Beverage Containers and Advertising, 1055 Ridgecrest Drive, Millersville TN 37072. A confirmation postcard will be sent on all shipments received prior to August 20, 1994.

Advance shipments can be claimed during registration hours on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the registration desk. See the convention booklet for specific times.

Grand Ole Opry Tour

Tickets for pre-registered tour attendees will be available for pick-up at the registration desk. Departure times and tour information will be announced in the Convention booklet. For information and availability, contact Jerry Gann #26313, Tour Coordinator, 1217 Newman Road, Rockvale TN 37153.

BCCA HALL OF FAME

1994 Nominations

The BCCA Hall of Fame honors outstanding members of our club. The five members shown below have been nominated by a vote of BCCA chapters. To be inducted into the Hall of Fame, a candidate must receive 50% endorsement by the voting members. (For example, if 500 members each vote for two candidates, 1000 total votes would be recorded. All candidates receiving 250 or more votes would be inducted into the Hall of Fame.) Under this system, one to four candidates could be inducted when you vote for two different candidates. The "Denver Wright Award" is presented to the candidate receiving the most votes.

Using the ballot on the back side of this page (or a photocopy or reasonable facsimile), please vote for TWO nominees. All BCCA members, including family memberships, are eligible to vote. However, any ballot giving both votes to the same candidate, or with more than two votes indicated, will be disqualified. Be sure to include your name and BCCA #, and mail your ballot to: 1994 BCCA Ballot, 747 Merus Court, Fenton MO 63026-2092. Ballots must be postmarked by August 1, 1994. (Only one ballot per member allowed.)

DICK ADAMOWICZ #344. Dick was instrumental in the formation of the Hall of Fame voting concept and continues to act as a consultant. As a member of the Playboy Chapter, Dick has attended all but the first convention and has served on the BCCA Board of Directors. He is an active member of many chapters and a constant contributor to the chapter newsletters. He is known and respected for his dedication and knowledge in the dumping aspect of beer can collecting and has made a video for the BCCA of dumping and cleaning cans. He is affectionately known as "Mr. Dumper."

WILL HARTLEP #3109. Will is an active BCCA member both at the national and local level. He served as a BCCA Board of Director in 1981-82. Will became the Eastern Correspondent for the News Report in 1980 and continues as writer of the Last Call column. As a member of the Golden Anniversary Committee, he researched, wrote and co-edited the Golden Anniversary Special Edition News Report. Will is past president of three BCCA chapters and is currently president of the Fort Pitt Chapter. In addition, he created the Brewerianist's list of unusual beer advertisements.

DON HICKS #16600. Since joining the BCCA in 1976, Don has served two terms on the Board of Directors, followed by holding the positions of treasurer, secretary, vice-president and president from 1988-91. Don was appointed Convention Planner in 1993. He serves as the Business Manager for Beer Can & Brewery Collectibles and is on the BCCA Nominating Committee. He established the "Mail-Fast" mailing service for foreign members and through his behind-the-scenes work has been successful in securing our convention cans and brewery donations for many conventions. Don is the past president of three chapters.

JACK KELLOGG #12115 Jack has served two terms on the BCCA board of directors since joining the BCCA in 1976. Jack, with his wife, Elaine, travels to shows throughout the country promoting and working for the BCCA. Jack co-founded the Patrick Henry Chapter. He developed the family membership program and the new half-year dues policy. As National Supply Chairman for six years, Jack's dedication and enthusiasm in increasing BCCA sales are legendary. Jack is currently serving on the BCCA Board as past president, after having served as treasurer, vice-president and president from 1991 to 1993.

HARRY KEITHLINE #23 Harry, AKA "the Sober One," has been a contributing member of the club since the early days. He is a member of 10 chapters and attends many out of town/state trade sessions each year. He has been president of the Gateway and Valley of Flowers Chapters. In the early 1980s Harry served as a BCCA Board member, and was the Membership Chairman in the late 1980s. He is one of a few, but gives to many, with his generosity and kindness. A Tontine member, Harry has been to every BCCA convention. Not known for his silence, Harry is currently serving a two year term on the BCCA Board and is never short of ideas.

Dumpers Almanac

BY JOHN KOTTEMANN #20507

In a departure from the successful dumping stories that have been presented here in recent issues, this time I want to provide a summary of recommended provisions, based on ideas from numerous collectors who have shared their expertise through previous BCCA magazines and the Rusty Bunch Chapter "Rustlings" over the last 15 years. Some of the suggestions are common sense, while others are pretty clever.

There are hazards associated with finding and digging old dumps, including sharp thorns, glass and metal, stinging insects, biting snakes, poison ivy and branches that "whack" in the wake of a trail blazer. Of greater concern, I've heard of collectors slipping and sliding down steep rocky slopes into abandoned mines and wells, and crashing through the floors of rotted attics. Some pretty serious injuries have been reported. That's why the most important thing to bring is a friend to enjoy the trip and to help out in case of emergency. A first aid kit for cuts and stings is essential. If you like to go dumping during the warmer months, a good bug repellent is also a must. If you don't like chemical potions like "Off," try Avon Skin-So-Soft. It really works.

The right clothes can protect your precious hide. Heavy leather work boots are needed to insulate your feet from glass and biting critters. Leather gloves are the single, most important piece of protective gear. I have a least one permanent scar from a time my hand met a piece of glass when I forgot to bring gloves. Heavy hunting pants and a thick long sleeve shirt can keep the thorns from finding your skin. In the winter, wear several layers of shirts so you can peel off layers as the temperatures rises. A hat can keep the sun off your brow in the summer and the cold off your ears in the winter. Don't forget a poncho or other rain gear if the weather doesn't cooperate. I know of a few people who wear safety glasses, for protection from all the glass and rust fragments that can become airborne in the fury of excavating. Lastly, if you can't avoid dumping during deer season, make sure you wear some bright orange clothing so the deer hunters can distinguish you from Bambi's mother.

Experienced dumpers have their own favorite digging tool. I like to use a triangular or flat-nosed hoe because it can be used for both scraping away leaves in shallow dumps and digging into deeper dumps. A lot of people prefer 3- or 4-prong hoes. I don't like them because it's too easy to poke holes in cans and because they constantly get tangled up with leaves and roots. Also, you can't move a lot of dirt with a 4-prong hoe! Short handled garden tools are OK, but you have to get on your hands and knees to use them, which can increase your odds of getting cut on glass.

For deep pit dumping, a shovel appears to be the most appropriate tool. A hatchet or bow saw can be useful if you find a large tree branch or root obstructing your excavation of a really good dump.

Bring along maps. If you're using a USGS topographic map, use a pencil or highlight pen to make notes of where you've looked, or to mark potential dump sites you may wish to return to. It wouldn't hurt to have a note pad handy to jot down ideas or directions to the local dump given by a friendly old timer you may meet. In case of rain, it's good to have a plastic cover or zip lock storage bag to keep you maps dry. Also, take a compass in case you hike and find yourself lost in the woods.

A few miscellaneous provisions that come in handy include a flashlight to explore the attics and crawl spaces of abandoned structures or old wells and caves. Binoculars can help you get a better look at a distant junk pile.

Stack the cans you've found carefully on top of one another (not on their sides) in a cardboard box. Using plastic bags to transport cans can cause unbelievable damage from bouncing and jarring, leaving dents and scratched paint. Waterproof boxes with dividers are the best, or old worn-out can-totes. If you think boxes take up too much room in your vehicle, break down the boxes and pack them flat. Bring some carton tape. Then if you need a box, make one! For trips that require many miles of hiking, stuff a few women's nylons in your pocket. You can fill the legs of the nylons with several cans stacked end to end, throw the rig over your shoulder and hike back to your vehicle.

The best "dump-mobile" is a truck or other four-wheel drive recreational vehicles. Access roads to abandoned resorts and cabins can be pretty rough.

Bring a bucket and scrubbing brush to do some presorting in your hotel room or around the campfire if your trip extends over a weekend or more. Some people even bring oxalic acid or lemon juice to clean their cans "in-the-field." Another idea is to bring a small bottle of strong acid, such as muriatic, for on-the-spot identification of mystery cans while you're still in the dump.

I hope you novice dump hunters have gained a lot from these tips, and that even the more advance dumper can add to your arsenal of ideas. If you have any additions or disagreements, let me know. All ideas and stories are welcome.

Keep the photos and stories coming. Send to John Kottemann, 6812 Bear Creek, Oakville MO 63129 (314) 846-0555

Inside the Package Looking Out

SEE THE USA ON THE WAY TO THE BCCA

way to the BCCA national Convention in Nashville. No matter which direction you're coming from, chances are you will drive through a town or two which contain breweries or brewpubs.

Nashville is accessible by three major interstates. North and south travelers will probably enter Nashville by I-65. East and west travelers will enter from I-40. Nashville is also intersected diagonally by I-24, which begins in southern Illinois at I-57 and ends in Atlanta, Georgia. These are the most heavily traveled routes leading to Nashville.

Coming from Atlanta, you can stop in Chattanooga at the Big River Grille & Brewing Works. This brewpub is located at 222 Broad St. From the east along I-40, you will pass through Knoxville, the home of the Smoky Mountain Brewing Co.

Nashville is home to the Bohannon Brewing Co. They are the brewers of Marker Street beers and are located downtown at 134 Second Ave., N.

Tennessee is home for two more breweries in the Memphis area. Along I-240 at the Mt. Moriah Rd. Exit is the Coors Brewery. This plant was first built by Schlitz, and then was bought by Stroh's in 1982. Coors bought the plant from Stroh's in 1990. It is a very impressive plant which has a hospitality room modeled after an old-time riverboat including an operating paddle wheel inside. This brewery is located at 5151 E. Raines Rd.

Not far from the Coors Brewery, in Germantown, a suburb of Memphis,

This coming September is an excellent opportunity to tour breweries on your is Bosco's Pizzeria & Brewery. Take the Highway 72 Exit off I-240 and head east. It is located in the Saddlecreek shopping center at 7615 W. Farmington Blvd.

Arkansas is home to three brewpubs. About an hour north of I-40 in the northwest corner of the state is the Ozark Brewing Co. in Fayetteville, Arkansas. On the far west side of Arkansas along I-40, in Fort Smith, is the Wiedman's Old Fort Brewpub, which is located at 422 N. 3rd St, in downtown Fort Smith. In Little Rock, also along I-40, is Vino's Brewpub, located at 923 W. 7th St.

Interstate 65 contains 2 breweries to the south. At the very southern tip, you will find the Port City Brewpub in Mobile, Alabama. Port City is located at 225 Dauphin St.

Birmingham is the home of Birmingham Brewing Company, the brewers of Red Mountain beers and ales. You can find the brewery at 3118 3rd Ave., S. This is a micro-brewery and does not have a restaurant on site.

North of Nashville along I-65 are two brewpubs in Louisville, Kentucky. The Silo Brewpub is located at 630 Barret Ave. And in the suburb of Saint Matthews, on the edge of downtown Louisville is the Bluegrass Brewing Company, located at 3929 Shelbyville Rd.

North of Louisville on I-71 & I-75 Exit 186, you will find the Oldenberg Brewery in Fort Mitchell, KY. This is also home of the American Museum of Brewing History & Arts, which is recognized as the largest breweriana collection in the world.

Whatever route you take to the Convention, please drive carefully. We'll see you in Nashville.

BABES

By Dave Launt #11325

"Tempting" The possibilities for double meanings are endless when combining beer and sexy women

The Detroit Brewing Co. featured a beautiful model in patriotic attire to promote Oldbru during the war years

The Rheingold Brewery probably used women more extensively than any other brewery during the 1940s and 50s.

A full-figured women used on this Maier tray was a popular form of advertising in the early 1900s.

Like many breweries of the 40s, Yuengling promoted their beer with sex appeal without being revealing.

No, this is not a sequel to the successful movie "Animal House," but rather a nostalgic look at women in beer advertising. Before and after prohibition brewers tried their best to reach the male dominated marketplace. Sports events, even a century ago, were also used to promote beer. In fact, a large number of breweries were owned by men who also owned sports teams. New York Yankee owner Colonel Jacob Ruppert probably had the longest reign of an owner-brewer. Even today, the Toronto Blue Jays are owned by Canada's Labatt Breweries.

But sports are seasonal, and the attraction of a lovely lass in an ad is an unarguable fact with year-round appeal. While she may have nothing to do with the consumption of beer, she looks good in a picture, on a tray or in a television commercial. Or, she may just sound good on the radio. To emphasize the power of a sexy voice, you may remember the Molson's radio spots of a decade ago. It featured a "boy meets girl" scenario in a number of locales. The most noteworthy was with the two on a camping trip. She carried six cold Molsons, but was without a bottle opener. Naturally, he had the opener. Her voice was designed to make male listeners fantasize about her looks.

in BEER

Pre-prohibition breweries started the ball rolling and frequently appealed to opposing tastes. From the Montana brewer who showed dance hall ladies holding kittens in their petticoats, with a blatantly risqué innuendo tagline, to the ethereal beauties found in early lithos and tin signs, women were here to stay as a marketing tool. The Montana ad appears to be unusual as, to their credit, early brewers' use of women in advertising was generally in good taste.

During the 1950s, Eastern breweries expanded on the theme, and women were often depicted as a buying influence for "hubby." A famous Schlitz tin-over-cardboard sign depicts a husband opening a refrigerator to a well stocked shelf of Schlitz beer. The caption reads, "Bless her heart," an obvious reference to his wife. But the real trend was toward showcasing women. Rheingold used the annual "Miss Rheingold" beauty contest. Genesee was to make "Jenny" an easily recognizable spokesperson. Who, of middle age, can forget the Carling Black Label slogan, "Mable, Black Label?" Carling made a real impact with this simple, but catchy campaign.

Not long after, women were viewed as consumers. They often appeared in party, beach or home settings

Voluptuous women were typical of the turn of the century advertising as in this cardboard diecut from the Maier Zobelein Brewery

Pre-pro self-framed tin sign from the Lone Star Brewing Co. features a tastefully dressed lady holding a bottle of Alamo Beer

The Alabama Brewing Company in Birmingham featured a fully-clothed voluptuous women on this tray from the early 1900s, featuring Ideal Beer, with the double meaning slogan "The Two Ideals."

Although common in many forms of advertising, few women have been depicted on cans. From left to right: Acme Beer, 1940s - a waitress serving steins of beer; Rheingold Beer - The Rheingold Girl contest ran from 1947-1957. Margie McNally was crowned Miss Rheingold in 1957; Playmate Beer, 1963 - Many would say the beer can, like the centerfolds, was a blatant exploitation of women; 007 Beer, 1962 - Rather than picture James Bond, this series featured seven different women similar to the beauties of movie fame; Meister Brau Happy Days Series, 1957 - This 10-can set featured women enjoying a sport or having a good time.

Tin over cardboard signs often featured female models. This beauty is from the F.W. Cook Brewing Co.

More Babes

During the 1950s, ethnic advertising emerged. Nellie Lutcher, a Jazz vocalist popular in the 1940s and 50s, serves guests tall glasses of Brew 102. A Spanish dancer entices Hispanic customers to "Always ask for the best beer," Brew 102 holding beer, or with one in close proximity. Also during this period, the use of ethnic and racially oriented marketing became a fact of life. Blacks, heretofore, had been used in ads, but as either servants or in unflattering depictions or stereotypes.

The civil rights movement may have paved the way for new markets for breweries. It also opened companies' eyes to other ethnic groups with dollars to spend. Lo and behold, enter attractive women from minority groups. Perhaps the larger brewers were the first to tap into these markets. In New York it was common to find ads aimed at virtually any large group. For example, an advertising campaign featured a pretty (say, Irish-American) Colleen wearing the green for St. Patrick's Day.

A lot of innocence of the 50s and 60s has been replaced by glitz and sexy ladies in varying degrees of dress, or undress. Thong bathing suits, statuesque women in tank tops, bikini teams, and models who make personal appearances, seem to be the way beer has been sold recently. This is not to say we are prudes, but witnesses to a one-hundred-year-old concept gone "Madison Avenue."

One can wonder where beer marketing is headed and speculate it may go full circle. After all, there is something to be said for a fully-clothed, well-dressed young lady, such as the models used decades ago.

Many of the women shown here can be viewed at the Corner Bar in Kalamazoo, Michigan. Dick Milne #29033 is one of the owners and he welcomes fellow collectors warmly.
